I was born in Nigeria, my father worked for Shell and we travelled extensively as a family until I was a teenager. My early working life was spent in London forging a career in mainly public relations before settling down and having a family. We have two children, James & Lydia who live and work in London. My husband, Clive, worked for a very well-known US food brand and this took us to Turkey and Saudi Arabia.

My other area of expertise is independent retail. I ran an award-winning womenswear boutique in Haslemere, Surrey for ten years. We bought our house in Kingsbridge three years ago with the plan to move down here permanently which we did in January this year.

I am currently working part-time as a Care Giver which I thoroughly enjoy. I like to be busy and am really looking forward to getting involved with Kingsbridge Town Council. I love cooking, eating, walking our dog Dora and meeting new people. Kingsbridge has a wonderful community and we are very lucky to be living here.
