I am a proud local, born and brought up in Salcombe. I started out on my early career in the arts in London. Relocating back to my beloved native Devon, for the past 35 years I established my photographic studios in the Kingsbridge and Salcombe area.

In addition to my core photographic business, I have always been involved in the wider creative industries, writing, training, lecturing and consulting.

Now in my sixties, I continue to work on a variety of photographic and arts-based commissions for my private clients, and I am evolving my personal practice as multi-disciplined artist, working from my home studio.

I hope to bring my varied business experience and put it to good use serving the town.
